

As an electrical engineer, you will be at the heart of jSERVICE's technical expertise and will be able to take on exciting tasks in various specialist areas. These include, for example, the areas of electromobility, infotainment, sensors and actuators, but also embedded software development. The position can be started at our headquarters in Wolfsburg or in Leipzig.

electrical engineer (m/f/d) automotive

📍 Leipzig, Wolfsburg

📅 asap

∞ indefinite

🕒 fulltime

What you can expect

- You will be part of a team developing new components and functions for the next generation of cars
- You define and create requirements based on existing concepts and coordinate them with system partners
- You write test cases and perform tests on the test bench and in the vehicle
- You will prepare specifications and coordinate them with all parties involved

Your profile

- You studied electrical engineering, information technology or a comparable course
- Confident handling of common Microsoft Office applications
- Good English skills, both written and spoken

Our offer

- Indefinite employment, industry standard salary, weekly German language course
- If necessary furnished apartment for transition period included
- 27 days annual leave increasing by 1 day each year to a maximum of 30 days
- 40 hours a week with flexible working hours with attendance from 9:00 am to 3:00 pm
- Overtime is compensated in spare time
- Training on the job with mentor, flat hierarchies and an informal working atmosphere
- Various leisure events such as team events, summer party, game evenings and much more
- Contribution to gym fees and health/self-care activities

Contact, Information and cu soon @ www.jSERVICE.de

Applications are welcome at karriere@jservice.de or via our application portal at www.jservice.de.